Six metres down and fifty metres out. A couple of you might need to take a moment for clarification.

DEUS completed the arduous but rewarding task of submerging an artificial reef framework, known as a Bio-Rock, and at somewhat of a loose end with more than three quarters of a tank load of air they set about spending the rest of the day enjoying the fruits of our labor.

There good friend and photographer, Nicole Gozzer, was Aqualunged up and on hand. She managed to exchange more than a couple of bubbly words with a free diving mermaid. The exchange babbled & burred to lead into an impromptu aquatic photo-shoot.

Enjoy and remember, if you're ever in the vicinity of Gili Trawangan, go check the Deus Bio Rock out...It's in front of Cafe Gili, take some piccies and send them to DEUS!
